M&K Sound S150 25 Years Limited Silver Edition - birthday present for a classic

From Hollywood blockbusters like Star Wars to the Saturday Live Night Show, professionals from film, broadcast and music production studios have been relying on the incorruptible speakers from M&K Sound for decades, and the S150 monitor is an essential part of this success story. 25 years after its appearance, the manufacturer is presenting an exclusive special series of this exceptional loudspeaker, limited to 250 units, which has perfected it even further thanks to a newly developed crossover with the best components, high-quality internal cabling and a special finish.

The Danish manufacturer M&K Sound has made an excellent name for itself as one of the first Dolby THX-certified loudspeaker manufacturers worldwide for studio and sophisticated home theater installations. One of the undisputed milestones in the company's history was and is the legendary high-end monitor S150, which is celebrating its 25th birthday this year. On the occasion of this anniversary Miller & Kreisel is presenting a limited special series of the S150, which duly honors the outstanding position of this loudspeaker with even more refined technology and an elaborate paintwork.

M&K S150: a legend for 25 years

The proud name of Miller & Kreisel goes back largely to the S150 monitor, which has been built almost unchanged for 25 years and which has long since achieved cult status in countless studio and cinema installations. The countless reference users include Hollywood's best-known mastering studios, the legendary Saturday Night Live Show and broadcasts of Grammy and Oscar awards, as well as groundbreaking music productions such as the Carl Nielsen Symphonies of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra or the pop productions of the legendary sound engineer Chris Lord-Alga. With the new 25 Years Limited Silver Edition, the S150 receives the recognition it deserves - but at the same time the manufacturer is setting an unmistakable mark for the next 25 years of an incorruptible sound reference.

The essence of over 40 years of loudspeaker development

Two 5.25" woofers made of fiberglass and no fewer than three 1.1" fabric domes, which are specially manufactured for M&K Sound by the Danish manufacturer Scan-Speak, help the passive S150 to achieve an unprecedentedly controlled radiation behavior and the incorruptible sound properties that Studio work are essential. The word "sound properties" is almost inappropriate at this point, because the S150 does not "sound" at all on its own. Instead, it opens up a clear and broad view of every detail of the recorded material, which allows the sound engineer to effortlessly focus on both individual aspects and the "big picture". The uncompromising sound fidelity also makes the S150 the perfect playing partner for demanding stereo setups in the living room at home.

25-Years-Limited-Silver-Edition makes good even better

The special edition of the S150, which is limited to 250 individually hand-numbered copies, not only celebrates the 25th anniversary of a loudspeaker that has held up as a mixing and mastering reference like no other for decades, but also raises it technically and visually to an absolute high-End level. Even if the elaborate special paintwork in elegant space gray with the matching loudspeaker grille effectively underlines the special status of the anniversary model, its true values are, as is so often the case, hidden inside. The crossover was carefully optimized even further using the highest quality audiophile components from the Danish manufacturer Jantzen and the internal cabling was carried out with Snow Wires from Van den Hul. Both ensure even further improved space, Depth graduation and transient reproduction with lower distortion, which guarantees long, fatigue-free work. In addition, individual cable terminals for tweeters and woofers ensure consistent bi-wiring or bi-amping capability. High-quality cable bridges are included for conventional single-wire operation. The 25 Years Limited Silver Edition of the S150 monitor from M&K Sound is the unique opportunity to get a long-standing monitor legend in absolute visual and sonic perfection and is sure to quickly become a sought-after collector's item.
